that republic in Europe.

The Tribune, a few days ago, after quoting Gen. Hamilton's letter, and calling the Texas annexation a catastrophe, launches out in its usual flippant style, into a tirade about slave jobbing and land jobbing, as it chooses to term the propo-sition alluded to. The fact is, this is all humbug and balderdash. The Tribune knows, as well as any man in the United States, that the annexation of Texas was the most important measure passed by our government since the acquisition of Louisiana. The acquisition, or annexation, of that State gave us the control of the Mississippi and a portion of the Gulf of Mexico; but the annexation of Texas will give us the entire control of that Gulf-an invaluable tract of the best land in the world-a climate unequalled for salubrityand will lead the way for the ultimate acquisition of California, the possession of the harbor of San Francisco in the Pacific, and give the Union a start towards a point of greatness that we could never hope of reaching if Texas had not been annexed. When this great question has received the sanction of the whole country—been perfected and set at rest forever-any attempt now to discuss its propriety, is an insult to the good sense of the whole people. The war on the Rio Grande, opened so auspiciously, will perfect these views.

By the terms of the joint resolutions of annexation, proposed by the Congress of the United States and accepted by the Legislature and citizens of Texas, the latter was to cede to the former all public edifices, fortifications, and all other property and means belonging to the public defence; that she was to retain all the public funds, taxes, &c., which might belong to her; and should also retain all the unappropriated lands, for the pur-pose of paying off the national debt, &c.

In accordance with these resolutions, the President of the United States has lately appointed an agent to receive, on the part of the United States, all the public property belonging to the United States, and specified and described in the resolutions, including the custom houses and the revenues derived from them.

of Texas amounted to the sum of ten millions of dollars. That debt Texas agreed to pay; and by the resolutions of annexation, the government of the United States was in no event to be burdened with it. Previous to annexation, the revenue derived from the customs of Texas had been pledged to secure the payment of two millions of this public debt. This was overlooked, at the time of the annexation. The question then arises, how is this sum to be paid, and by whom? The United States have taken possession of the means that were pledged for the payment of it, and by that act deprived the government of Texas of the ability to pay. The bond holders certainly must not suffer. The fact is, by the terms of the joint resolutions, the government of the United States is not strictly or legally liable to pay this debt; but that it is morally and equitably bound to do so, there can be no question. The United States takes possession of the revenues, and although they were encumbered, without the knowledge of our government, those encumbrances should be discharged when the revenues passed to the

There is another question which is deserving of some consideration. The people of Texas, it appears, are desirous of selling their public lands to the United States, for the purpose of raising means to discharge their public debt. The United States has no control now over those lands; and if the treaty which is on the point of being concluded between our government and the Camanche Indians be carried into operation, our government will be obliged to purchase a portion, at all events, of these pub-lic lands, in order to fulfil their part of the contract. By that treaty the United States allots the occupation of a portion of the territory of Texas to the Camanches, as a hunting ground. This measure cannot be taken without purchasing the territory so allotted. The question then arises again, whether it would not be advantageous to our government to purchase the whole of the public lands of Texas at once? The immense public domain of that State is at present comparatively unproductive, but in the hands of the United States, it would be a source of immense wealth to the whole Union, and more of a benefit to Texas than it is at These questions are highly important. We trust they will receive the attention of the people and of Congress.

Steam Ship Great Britain.

We visited yesterday the monster steamship Great Britain, merely to ascertain the alterations and improve-ments which she has undergone since her previous trip to this country. Mr. Hedger, the chief officer, very po-litely escorted us through this stupendous vessel, and pointed out the various improvements. In the first place, she has what is called a bilge keel, extending 110 feet on each side, made of two thick plants riveted together, and fastened to the vessel with double iron knees. This keel extends from the side two feet, and four feet below the surface of the water. These bilge keels have been found to answer to admiration—making the ship easier in a sea way; and likewise hold a much better wind, when under canvass.

a soa way; and likewise hold a much better wind, when under canvass.

She is furnished with a four armed propeller, instead of six, as was used heretofore. This propeller is made with an extraordinary degree of strength, with the purest wrought iron, much thicker than the other, and strongly-braced together.

The boilers, too, are very much improved by the alterations made under the directions of Mr. Fields, the eminent engineer of London, which now supplies a constant and sufficient quantity of steam—at the same time reduces the consumption of fuel—in proof of which, upon her arrival, she had 300 tons of coal on hand.

The next improvement, and one not the least important, is in her rig. She now carries two square topsails, courses and topgallant sails, which give her a very imposing appearance.

The first mast in the ship is called No 1, then follows fore, main, mizzen, and claxton masts, which complete the five masts, instead of six which she had before. These masts are all stepped in the usual manner below, and not on the upper deck as before, which tends to keep the ship much steadier in a heavy sea. All the iron wire rigging has been removed, and the best of hemp supplies its place. She is provided with an extra two armed prepeller fastened on deck, to be used in case of an emergency. The outside of the ship is painted entirely black, which shows her beautiful model to very great advantage. The figure head represents the royal arms of England, handsomely carved.

Now, taking it altogether, she has made a very good lage. The figure head represent the constant of the land, handsomely carved.

Now, taking it altogether, she has made a very good passage this time, considering the accident of breaking the forward air pump, which compelled her to sail six days without steam. In fact, she is now as near perfection as it appears possible to make her, and is certainly equal it not superior in speed and accommodation to any steamship at present affoat in the world.

SHOCKING SUICIDE.—Dr. George W. Spalding, of Richmond, killed himself in that city on the set uit, by taking nearly three parts of a tumbler full of prussic acid. He was only 22 years of age, and had a good prospect of success in his profession. Cause unknown—probably love or temporary mental aberration

New York Jookey Club Spring Races, Union Course, Long Island.

These long looked for races, which have been posttime to time, and which have been put off one time after another, principally in consequence of the unfavorable state of the weather, commenced yesterday. one time after another, principally in consequence of the unfavorable state of the weather, commenced yesterday. As usual the very elements appeared against the sport. In the morning it was tolerably fine up to twelve o'clock, when the clouds began to lower, and shortly after a gentle shower followed just about the time that most admirers of sport were about to start for the scene of operation. Previous to this some hundreds—we might say thousands, had proceeded to the scene of action; and from an early hour in the morning, both the Fulton and South Ferry boats were crowded with pedestrians and equestrians determined to see all that was possible, in defiance of weather or anything else. Every accommodation was siforded by the enterprising managers of the Long Island Railway for the conveyance of parties to and from the Union Course; indeed, it is as much owing to them as any other cause, that the attendance at these meetings is so numerous. At an early hour in the morning, open cars, at 25 cents each passage, started from the station new South Ferry, and up to twelve o'clock, some 3,000 or 4,000 persons had been conveyed by this means. At and after 12 o'clock a superior class of carriages conveyed the others at some 50 cents each, and all arrived at their destination, so far as we know, in comfort.

On reaching the ground, we found the dollar stand well filled, better than we have seen it on many previous occasions. The Club stand also, but by the time for the first race, the former was crowded and the Club stand comfortably full. The field stand also, was well occupied: as well as the inside of the course with coaches, omnibuses, wagons, and every description of vehicle that could be brought into requisition, some few of them occupied with the fairer portion of creation. Just previous to the first race there must have been some six or eight thousand persons present, a number far beyond the most sanguine expectation, although the rain fell heavier than previously.

O. P. Hare's b. m. Antoinette, by Imp. Priam, dam by Virginian, 5 years.

James K. Van Mater's b. h. by Imp. Langford, out of Miss Mattie, 5 years.

At the start Lloyd's ch.c., out of Gypsey, had the inside; Van Mater's b. h. out of Miss Mattrie, second; Antoniette outside. The tap was given, and the b. m. took the lead, the others in close attendance; at the quarter went inside, and increased her distance somewhat to the top; at the 'drawgate Sunbeam was in front, a length or more, Antoinette second, Langford about the same behind. Coming home they appeared to crowd together, but much in this position. Second mile two to one was offered on Sunbeam. They took it easy, galloping together to the half; after which there was a considerable increase of speed, and Sunbeam led home the second mile two lengths in front, the brown horse taking it comparatively easy. For the third mile they proceeded thus to the half mile pole at rather a slow pace, but here the brown horse went well up to Sunbeam, but the latter soon shook him off again. The speed was now first rate to the drawgate, where Antoinette was behind some four or five lengths, and just at that moment when the latter appeared to be putting on the steam, some four or five fools crossed between the horses, three of which were knocked down by antoinette, who was pulled up, and the consequence was, ere she could recover, the others reasehed home, and she was declared distanced.—Sunbeam came home about two thirds of a length in front for the first heat in 6m. Itis.

Second Hara.—Sunbeam led about half a length. At quarter they appeared neck and neck, which position they kept to the half, rather slow. At the turn round the top the b. h. appeared to be hutrying Sunbeam up, but at the drawgate Sunbeam was some three-fourths of a length in front, which he maintained home for the first quarter, they were neck and neck, but as they approached the half, the b. h. showed in front a trifle.—Round the top it was a most beautiful race, and great excitement prevailed. No one ap occasion about her; suffice it to say that she never looked better, and it was the opinion of some good judges present, that if needs be she would have made quite as good a race on the present occasion, as she ever did, had it been required Patsey Anthony looked well, much improved in every respect since we last saw her. But against such an animal as Fashion, where was her chance?

The trumpet having sounded, the horses saddled, they were brought forth. The indomitable J. Lairy, jr., on the back of the favorite in his black cap and blue jacket. There was very little betting, but what was done previous to the start, was at about 100 to 35 on Fashion; 100 to 35 taken in a few instances; 5 to 3 no heat done under 7m. 44s.—no takers.

Patsey had the inside. Ringgold second, Fashion outside; at the tap, Ringgold and Patsey went away, Fashion come two or three lengths behind; they kept thus to the quarter, and from thence round to the draw-gate, Ringgold leading home in the first mile, closely followed by Patsey, Fashion as before; they kept thus for the second mile, at the end of which, Patsey was some four or five lengths in front; Ringgold and Fashion well together, behind, at the quarter; Ringgold went well up, closely waited on by Fashion, who appeared to gain considerably waited on by Fashion, who appeared to gain considerably towards the half; round the top the gap was closed considerably; and at the three quarter pole Fashion was close on Patsey; at the draw-gate, Patsey not more than two lengths in front of Fashion, Ringgold about the same distance behind; they went thus for the fourth mile; going round the bottom, Fashion, went up to Patsey, amid great cheering, and led more than two lengths in front at the half, taking it easy; 20 to 1 was now offered upon her, and no takers; and $10 to a supper of oysters, with like effect; Fashion increased her speed round the top to the three quarter pole, and then made it all her own, and came home in a walk, in 7m. Asja., with great applause, Patsey some five or six l

Van Mater's br. h. was inside; Alderman second; Horner's ch. m. outside. There was no betting that we could glean on this affair. There was no seeing from the start, in consequence of the heavy damp mist that prevailed—suffice it to say, that the first heat was won by the Alderman with apparent ease, in 1 m. 53 s.

The second heat was won by Van Mater's br. h. by some five lengths, in 1 m. 52 s; Alderman second.

Third Heat—There was a bad start for this heat—the Alderman some three lengths behind, when the tap was given; but before the other two got to the quarter, the Alderman went in front, which he maintained home in 1 m. 55 s; Van Mater's br. h. second.

We would suggest to the management that they enforce more strict attendance at rehearsal, as some of the actors come on the stage very badly prepared. Mr. Chapman deserves great credit for his exertions to secure the success of the pieces. To-night, Mr. Rice appears in two pieces, the burlesque of "Otello," and "Jumbo Jum." The original equestrian spectacle of the "Holiday Sports of Old Spain, or the Bull Fight," in which beautiful and showy pageant a horse does such wonders, seems to be everywhere excessively attractive. Eight ladies, an uncommon feature in a travelling circus, appear in this piece in various wild and romantic manesures, armed cap-d-pie as Amazonian maids. Police Intelligence.

JUNE 2.—Arrest of a Fugitive.—Officers Welsh and A.M. C. Smith, of the Police Office (Tombs), arrested a man called Rudolph Malitix, on a requisition from the Governor of Ohio, charged with being a fugitive from Hamilton Ce., Ohio, whom these vigitant officers discovered stowed away at No. 21 Albany street. It appears this man was indicted about the 1st of Jan 1842, for forging the name of Nicholas Bevirller, as an endorsement on a bill of exchange, dated Nov. 3, 1841, by Messra. Dorr, Brothers, of Metz, France, drawn upon Messra. Rogers & Co., bankers of this city, for the payment of $644, in coin of the United States, to the order of Bevirller, at Cincinnati. He was conducted before Justice Osborne, who committed him to the Tombs, to await the arrival of officer Levi Elliot from the above county, who will take him back fortrial.

Constructive Larceny.—A man called Owen Mc Donald applied yesterday to Mr. Robert Chrystie, of canal boat Governor P. Mullen, lying at the foot of Dey street, for the purchase of three or four loads of potatoes. when, after agreeing upon the price, the bargain was struck, and three carts were brought to cart them off. The first two carts were loaded up and driven away, and when McDonald was loaded, Chrystie demanded the pay for the three leads, according to agreement, when McDonald stated that he was willing to pay for the load he had on his eart, but as regarded the other two, he knew nothing about them. The potatoes were worth $17.80. This conduct appearing somewhat strange to Chrystie, he made a complaint before the magistrate, when McDonald was held to bail to answer.

Sudden Changes.—There is nothing more trying to the human constitution than sudden changes of atmosphere. Heat rarifes the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration; but when suddenly checked, those humors which should pass off by the skin are thrown off inwardly, causing coughs, colds, consumption, difficulty of breathing, watery and inflamed eyes, sore throat, fevers, rhemmatic pains in various parts of the body, and many other complaints, the usual symptoms of catching cold.

Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills are a delightful medicine for carrying off a cold—because they expel from the body those humors which are the cause not only of the above complaints, but of every malady under heaven. Four of five said Indian Vegetable Pills taken every night on going to bed will, in a few days, carry off the most obstinate cold; at the same time the digestive organs will be restored to a healthy tone, and, the bloods occumpletely purified, that new life and vigor will be given to the whole frame.

LAUTION.—It should be remembered that Mr. Samuel Reed, of Baltimore: Mr. John Diron, of Easton, Pa., and Messrs. Browning & Brothers, of Philadelphia, are not agents of ours. and as they purchase no Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills at our office, we cannot goaranty as gennine any medicine that they may have for sale.

MONEY MARKET.

Tuesday, June 2-6 P. M. By the arrival of the steam ship Hibernia, at Boster from Liverpool, we have been put in possession of ad-vices from all parts of Europe, ten days later than than those received by the Great Britain. We have Liverpool dates to the 19th, and London to the 18th of

The news, in a commercial view, is rather important than otherwise, and is favorable. Politically, it possesses very little interest. Money was easy, and the rate of interest, for good business paper, ruled at three and a half per cent. An advance of about one-eighth of a penny on cotton had been realized, which was attributed principally to the fact that a large deficiency in the crop of this year had been fully established. Several failures had occurred in the commercial world, and it is reported that a large Liverpool house, exten-sively connected with the American trade, had been se-vere sufferers by these insolvencies. The direct causes

The Corn bill had finally passed a third reading in the lower house of Parliament; and the public mind in England was very much excited in relation to the probable fate of the bill in the House of Lords. It was the prevaling impression that the bill would pass the upper House. The large majority in the lower House, it was supposed, would not be without its effect upon the opposition in the upper House. The bill was at the latest accounts before the Lords, and the advices by the Great Western, will, without doubt, strevere it passage. It is impossible to prophecy what will be the effect of the passage and adoption of this bill upon the Corn markets of Great Britain. The immense quantity of foreign flour and grain locked up in bond in the principal ports of the United Kingdom, ready to be forced upon the market the moment the existing restrictions are removed, will, undoubtedly, produce a depression in prices, but whether that depression will be temporary or permanent, it is impossible to tell; yet our impression is that it will be permanent, and that lower prices for breadstuffs will rule in the corn markets of Great Britain than have been realized for years, if not lower than ever experienced. by the Great Western, will, without doubt errence its years, if not lower than ever experienced. We know of nothing that can be improved much by the complexion of the foreign news, but cotton and indian corn. Flour must decline. We see no possibility of preventing it. In anticipation of the passage of the corn bill, this market for flour has been heavy, and prices tending downwards; and the passage of the bill being now placed beyond a doubt, it will be extremely difficult to sustain present quotations. It was estimated that there were 400,000 barrels of foreign flour in bond, in British ports waiting the removal of restrictions the old corn laws placed upon its entry. This immense quantity will be released the moment the new bill becomes a law, and the markets flooded with supplies. In the face of this, the harvests of Great Britain are not far distant, and the accounts from the principal agricultural districts, in relation to the growing crop, are of the most favorable character. Unless something should happen to destroy the hopes of the farmer, and injure the growing grain, ooth in this country and in Europe, the production this year will be immense, and prices must reach a very low point. We have, however, no doubt but that large shipments of flour will be made from this country to Great Britain on home account, on speculation, as mar-kets must be found somewhere for the large surplus we now have, and are likely to have after the new crop comes in. A very great decline in prices here would make shipments, at the bottom of the market, pay; but they must be made at a large per cent below present quo

The resolutions passed, and the report was accepted. This road, when finished, will connect with the Harlem, at or near Williams' Bridge, and thus connect this city with the numerous lines of New England railways. In ithe course of time another connection will be made via Danbury and Hart-ford; and eventually, another at the junction of the Westren and Berkshire roads.

We would recommend to the new board of directors of the Harlem Railroad, the policy of extending their road east, instead of running north. The people of Albahy and vicinity, have made great efforts to obtain a charter through the Legislature, thereby establishing a preceinternal improvement; and the best thing they can do now is to go to work and build their road. We want to see a beginning made, and we wish to see the thing pushed rapidly through to completion. The river towns are shut out from this market about ninety days in each year; and it is highly important that the road intended to do away with even that temporary embargo, should be con-structed as speedily as possible. We trust those capita-lists, whose names occupied such a prominent position in the petition for the river road, will come forward the petition for the river road, will come forward promptly and liberally, and carry out the promises they made so freely before the charter was obtained We have repeatedly deprecated the principle of granting charters to railroad companies, without requiring a guaranty, in the shape of deposits, similar to the system established in Great Britain, and we hope this will not make another in the long list of lines contemplated, the charters of which are a dead letter. The Hudson River Railroad Company was charletter. The Hudson River Railroad Company was char-tered for the purpose, as reported, of connecting New York and Albany; and we trust that those interested will not fail in completing what they were so forward in pro-mising. Those who were not satisfied with the progress made by the Harlem Company in connecting the two cities—Albany and New York—by railroad, will, we fear, look in vain for a more speedy connection by this new company. If we might venture a prediction, it would be that a railroad connection between Albany and New York will be made by the Harlem Company be fore the first ten miles of the Hudson River road be
